A Message from the Board President

Dear Friends and Supporters,

I hope you will take a few moments to go through Weymouth Center's 2025-2026 Impact Report. And, let's start with the reason we decided to change from an Annual Report to an Impact Report.

- It motivates and reminds us of our responsibility as a historical non-profit organization and to always strive to have positive impact in the life of our community.
- In a world increasingly driven by technology and high-speed data, the Arts and Humanities are often overlooked. Yet they play a vital role in shaping society; bridging cultural gaps, strengthening critical thinking, nurturing creativity, and encouraging innovation. At a time when everything feels urgent, from the news to social media, the Arts and Humanities invite us to slow down, be present with our community, and enrich our daily lives.
- We want to acknowledge that there are multitudes of people serving and supporting Weymouth Center and its mission in countless ways. Each person is an essential part of our impact, from our Board of Directors, the Staff, donors and hundreds of volunteers.

As you read through this, you will see where Weymouth Center works to honor and continue its and North Carolina's literary history, to create a space for a variety of concerts with talented musicians, and to nurture beautiful grounds maintained by our volunteer Dirt Gardeners with historic buildings. We also honor young people through our equestrian program by growing skill sets with a unique sport, possible future career opportunities, and most importantly, responsibility – self, team, and community. Plus, the all important and precious life-moments of hosting weddings, military retirement ceremonies, or memorial services.

Our history strengthens our future. We've added four more Writers-In-Residency opportunities in the recently renovated Lamont Cottage, and we've received grants and donations to support our accessibility project for the 1925 Boyd house, and so much more. All of these programs will continue to develop our impact.

Thank you for being an important part of Weymouth Center.

Community Engagement

We hosted 2nd Annual Strike at the Wind! outdoor drama in partnership with University of North Carolina at Pembroke.

Weymouth Wonderland hosted 900 people in a 1-day open to public Holiday event.

We also opened the Boyd House for three Saturdays in November and December to allow weekend access to Weymouth Center.

Spring into Reading featured Michael Beadle, children's poet, and Pixie, the pony.

Interpreting Drums: The Art of Historical Fiction opened with the loan of three original N.C. Wyeth paintings on loan from the Town of Southern Pines, North Carolina.

Fun Facts

The Dirt Gardeners began their work years before the official non-profit Friends of Weymouth was formed in 1977.

Meagan Church, a writer-in-residence, hit the 2025 NYT best seller list with a book she wrote in part at Weymouth Center.

North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources's Traveling Archivist Program provided us with supplies for the Archives.

The Lamont Cottage was renovated, including improved access to ground floor rooms and with the goal of doubling our Writers-in-Residency program. The house was built in 1916 and was home for James and Katharine while the Boyd House was built.

We had ten summer camp students who designed their own drums and formed a drum circle.

The Women of Weymouth generously support our mission through year-round volunteer leadership and programming, including events like our Women's History Month talk with PineStraw founder Andie Rose.

Mission

The mission of Weymouth Center for the Arts & Humanities is to provide a place of inclusivity by offering literary and cultural experiences that inspire and enrich the lives of our community.

Vision

Weymouth Center will provide a facility and grounds to enrich our diverse community while developing sustainable sources of revenue.

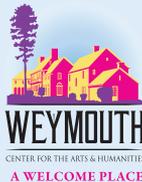

Looking Forward

The North Carolina Literary Hall of Fame will host the 2026 induction ceremony at Weymouth Center in October.

St. Andrew's University has donated a collection of the works of 20 members of the North Carolina Literary Hall Of Fame.

The Boyd House is getting updates to create a more accessibility.

America 250 celebrations and events will continue throughout the year!
